Deitch Projects is pleased to present an exhibition of 11 sculptures by Keith Haring ranging from small to large-scale.

Sculpture has been an integral part of Keith Haring's work since his first exhibition of steel sculptures at Leo Castelli's gallery in 1985. Haring also completed several outdoor sculpture commissions including the well-known Red Dog for Landois presented at the Munster Sculpture Project in 1987. A retrospective of Keith Haring's sculpture was presented on Park Avenue in collaboration with the Public

Art Fund in 1997. Since then exhibitions of Haring's sculpture have been installed in San Francisco, West Hollywood, Chicago, Berlin and Rome.

The exhibition also features a 50 foot long drawing made for the Matrix exhibition at the Wadsworth Athenaeum in 1983. It is being installed for the first time since the Matrix show.

The installation of the Deitch Projects exhibition was designed by ROY.

The Estate of Keith Haring is represented by Deitch Projects.
